I WOULD SO MUCH LIKE TO BE WRONG

When this line was published in the Grama newspaper last, Friday, the date of July 26, when we proudly remember the honor of having resisted the imperialists’ attacks, will be felt distant, despite the fact that it is only 32 days away.

Those who determine every step of humanity’s worst enemy, the US imperialism, a combination of miserable material interests, contempt and underestimation of the other peoples who inhabit this planet have calculated everything with mathematical precision.

In the Reflection of June 16, I wrote: “The diabolic reports slide down little by little in between matches of the Football World Cup, so that nobody takes notice.”

The famous sports contest is now in its most exciting moment.

The sports enthusiasts grow constantly attracting hundreds of millions or perhaps even billions of people worldwide.

But, we should be wondering how many are aware that from June 2015 warships, including the aircraft carrier Harry S. Truman, escorted by one or more nuclear submarines and other warships carrying missiles and cannons more powerful than the old battleships used during the last World War between 1939 and 1945, have been moving towards the Iranian coasts via the Suez Canal.

This movement of the Yankee naval forces is accompanied by military ships, carrying equally sophisticated weaponry, intended to supervise any vessel involved in the import or export of commercial products requested by the Iranian economy for its operations.

Following a US proposal supported by the United Kingdom, France and Germany, the UN Security Council passed a tough resolution which was not vetoed by any of the five countries with the right to do it.

Another tougher resolution was adopted by the US Senate. Later, a third and even tougher resolution was approved by the member countries of the European Community. All of this happened before June 20, which mobilized French President Nicolas Sarkozy to make an urgent trip to Russia according to reports to meet with the head of State of that powerful country, Dmitri Medvedev, in hope of negotiating to prevent the worst from happening.

Now, it’s a matter of calculating when the American and Israeli naval forces will be deployed on the coasts of Iran placing there the aircraft carriers and other US military ships already on watch in the region.

It is still worse that, the same as the United States, Israel — its gendarme in the Middle East, has state-of-the-art fighter planes and sophisticated nuclear weapons supplied by the United States, which have turned it into the sixth nuclear power on Earth, in terms of its fire power, and one of eight such powers that include India and Pakistan.

The Shah of Iran was overthrown by the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomenei in 1979 without firing one shot.

But then the United States imposed on that nation a war with chemical weapons whose consequences are supplied to Iraq along with the information required by this country’s combat units; such weapons were used by the military forces of the Guardians of the Revolution.

Cuba knows this because, as we have said before, our country chaired the Non-Aligned Movement at the time. We know very well the damage done to the populations.

Mamdouh Ahmadinejad, currently the head of State of Iran, was chief of the sixth army of the Guardians of the Revolution and chief of the Guardians Corps in the western provinces, which carried of that war.

Today, in 2010, thirty-one years later, both the United States and Israel understandestimate the one-million men that make up Iran’s Armed Forces and their fighting capacity on the ground as well as the air, sea and ground forces of the Guardians of the Revolution.

These forces are compounded by 20 million men and women, ages 12 through 60, selected and systematically trained by their various armed institutions, from the 70 million people who live in that country.

Such hope is paramount. It’s simply ridiculous to think that the US warships and Israeli forces combined would win the sympathies of even one Iranian citizen.

I initially thought, as I analyzed the current situation, that due to the conflict we have with the Korean peninsula, where the second Korean War would break out, and that another war would immediately follow, that the one that the United States would impose on Iran. Now, we are witnessing a different turn of events: the war in Iraq will immediately spark off that of Korea.

The leadership of North Korea, which was accused of sinking the Cheonan, which knows only too well that said ship was sunk by a mine attached to its hull by the Yankee intelligence services, will not miss a second as a act in Iraq as an act of war.

It is only fair that football fans freely enjoy the competitions of this World Cup.

I simply fulfill my duty of informing our people, as I think mostly of our youths, half of life and hopes, especially our wonderful children, so that the development do not catch them by surprise.

It hurts to think of the dreams of our youth and the amazing things they have created in barely a few thousand years.

At a time when the most revolutionary dreams are coming true and our homeland is firmly on the path to recovery, I would so much like to be wrong!

By Fidel Castro

Commandante Fidel Castro Ruz

stage of quarter-finals, semi-finals and then the final competition.

For 14 days, the teams with the best players from 32 nations have been competing to advance to the

The City of Windhoek is having an auction of 201 unimproved "residential" zoned erven in Aussenblick, Donorali Park, Kleine Kuppe and 3 improved properties in Windhoek and Rocky Crest. A variety of sizes have been created to suit each individual’s need. The prices for the unimproved erven range between N$909,089.00 and N$304,000,000.00. The auction will be conducted by Pro-Ex Auctioneers.

AUCTION INFORMATION:

The auction will be held on 23 July 2010 at 08:30 at the SKW Sport Club, Sean MacBride Street. Registration is compulsory and required for all prospective purchasers or interested bidders and can be done as from 2 July 2010 until 16 July 2010 at the Customer Care Centre, Reverend Michael Scott Street. Registration fee of N$550.00 is payable in cash within 14 days of the auction date. The auction is compulsory and required for all prospective purchasers or interested bidders or applicants and refunds shall, upon written application and submission of the verification confirmation, be made by cheque within 14 days of the auction date. The auction is compulsory and required for all prospective purchasers or interested bidders or applicants and refunds shall, upon written application and submission of the verification confirmation, be made by cheque within 14 days of the auction date.

AUCTION DOCUMENTS:

Maps with lists of the properties, Conditions of Auction and Draft Deed of Sale are available free of charge at the Customer Care Centre, Reverend Michael Scott Street.

DOCUMENTS NEEDED TO REGISTER:

Identification, Marriage Certificate, Proof of financial status (letter from bank with loan amount – letter from bank with loan amount available for cash payment) Foundation statement and/or company’s registration.

ENQUIRIES TECHNICAL:

Mrs. Anne Louis/Mr Elly Shipiki
Tel: +264 - (0)61 –290 2604/2608/2313/2262.  Fax: 290 2493 E-mail: alv@windhoekcc.org.na

ES Shipiki:

MANAGER: PROPERTY MANAGEMENT OFFICE OF THE CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICE

Notice No. 63/2010

ON page 4

perceived and imagined dominers categories, mount a gua-ella action for alternative meaning of resistance consciousness, s, presenting “truth claims” in con-voculated arcane language intended to intimidate the unin-itated with exhortations and protests of saints vs. sinners, innocents vs. monsters, for or against this, pro or contra that, in a moralized politics that create innocence, while the truth is that power depends upon the denial of power.

The point here is neither to justify separation and division nor to endorse standpoints but rather to argue that separation is a simultaneous refusal. The word commonly used in these debates is diversity, that takes into account the existence of different needs and interests, but the word itself doesn’t register the fact that advocating for “diversity” contributes to divisiveness since diversity disrupts homogeneities and sacrifice “excellence”.

On the other hand, in essence, ignoring differences encourages and provides the necessary ammunition and conceptual basis for an essential-

ism that denies the basis for difference. Each group will claim a fixed, transcendent identity establishing itself and denying the

differences and interconections of others. These others, whether they are ethnic

language groups or not, adopt

a language of protection conceptualized in terms of victimization, which in turn leads to identity politics of minorities and gives rise to a moralizing dogmatism.

The point is, despite the fashionable nostrums for political differences holding onto blindingly narrow ideals polarizing the debate, we need to build bridges in our discourse.

Mr. Haufiku, with all due respect, is polarizing the debate and even if this pronouncements gave rise to highly contested observations, they are quite serious in their philosophical as well as practical implications about group and national identity. Yet, I condescend that the polerical anti-this and contra that

threat of rhetoric is absurdly out of place and the framing of the debate in moralist “truth claims” is shallow, misinformed, and intellectually shoddy. The mentality of the ex-ponents of the oneness disrupts homoge-

neities and sacrifice “excellence”.

On the other hand, in essence, ignoring differences encourages and provides the necessary ammunition and conceptual basis for an essential-

ism that denies the basis for difference. Each group will claim a fixed, transcendent identity establishing itself and denying the

differences and intercon-

ections of others. These others, whether they are ethnic

language groups or not, adopt

a language of protection con-

ceptualized in terms of victim-

ization, which in turn leads to

identity politics of minorities and
gives rise to a moralizing dogmatism.

The point is, despite the fashionable nostrums for political

differences holding onto blindingly narrow ideals polarizing the debate, we need to build bridges in our discourse.

Mr. Haufiku, with all due respect, is polarizing the debate and even if this pronouncements gave rise to highly contested observations, they are quite serious in their philosophical as well as practical implications about group and national identity. Yet, I condescend that the polerical anti-this and contra that

threat of rhetoric is absurdly out of place and the framing of the debate in moralist “truth

claims” is shallow, misin-

formed, and intellectually shoddy. The mentality of the ex-ponents of the oneness disrupts homoge-

neities and sacrifice “excellence”.