WELL DONE BY THE ECN, The so called Human rights Organization (NSHR) is disgusting, how on earth always make unfounded allegations? They went too far and I think it was a wise decision to boot them out as election observer in order to avoid confusion and misleading information. If they will take the ECN to court, well is fine let them do so, how ever they should be reminded that being human right they should practice what they are saying, they have been now for several month if not years without paying their employees because there is no money. Now yet they want to take court action against ECN, Where does that money will come from? Hmmm yakwetu what disgusting!

SWAPO otayi kalelele! VIVA

SWAPO VIVA!

◆ Posted by Kapembe

GMP said that "SWAPO ota yi kalele" meaning that SWAPO reigns for ever. It is evident that SWAPO will always be here and will always be a party for all Namibian citizens. As the says goes "SWAPO is the people and People are SWAPO", my recent visit to the regions have just confirmed that. I visited North Central regions particulary the Oshikoto, Oshana, Omusati and also others outside of NC like Caprivi, Kavango, Kunene and just came back to Khomas. One thing in common to all these regions that I saw around houses, shebeens, shops, cars and even people wearing the Blue Red and Green colours. The few I spoke to have just confirmed that the victory of SWAPO in 2009 will be one that has never been seen in Namibia. So SWAPO oshili ota yi kalele... Today, Tomorrow and many more years to come.

Mr.Livius Hamutenya of the Real Disappointed People(RDP) is claiming to have 390 000 members on his Database,however some of this membership was obtained in the dubious means such as canvassing for members in Shebeens and through unpopuar house to house campaign telling lies that APP and COD is part of RDP.More than 100 membership cards was confiscated by APP leader and more than thousands were surrendered to the able leaders of the Mighty SWAPO Party of Namibia at various meetings and Rallies.We are going to finish them comrades come 27-28 November 2009.Victory is Certain.The born frees will vote for the SWAPO Party as their parents have been voting SWAPO since 1989.SWAPO united,SWAPO Victorious,Now we shall defeat the likes of Phil yaNgolo,Livius Hamutenya. Nyamu Notes,Hengari,Max Hamata, Gwen Lister and their cohorts!!!!!!!!!!!!

RDP is a party of power hungry, failure, and angry politicians. Why do I say this? First of all, RDP leaders and founders were once Swapo members, and only after they fall out that they get frustrated and angry, and out of their frustration they formed RDP. To be specific Hidipo the RDP president wanted to be came the president of Namibian on the Swapo ticket, and one wonder what could have happened. It raises a lot of questions in my mind such as. 1. Would Hidipo still have the idea of forming the RDP should he have won the presidency 2005 on a Swapo ticket? 2. As a president on a Swapo ticket, would he still see Swapo as a corrupt party and government? As far as I am concerned Hidipo does not like democracy, because he does not believe in democracy. Sometimes I wonder why people cry for democracy, and yet when they see democracy in action, they condemn it. Democracy is a process of change and renewal, and you should also expect to lose. How can you possibly say that Swapo is corrupt only after you lose?

Look at a true comrade and indeed a trusted cadre like Nahas Angula, he fell out of presidential election, like you but he did not waver, he understood that it was a lose and win race. And who knows maybe one day he still have a chance of becoming MR President in the near future, as we in Swapo will support him, when that day came. Again democracy in action: following your dismissal as minister immediately before Swapo election by President Sam Nujoma, it is another sign of democracy in action, as enshrined it the constitution of the land of the brave; "President's prerogative power to appoint ministers, and to dismiss them", and you Hidipo is no exception. So what are you talking about? you Nyamu, perhaps you were promised the position of Prime Minister in Hidipo dream government? In my view a position you truly did not deserve. A piece of advice to Mr. Hamutenya: The old saying which says; A leader is born is still relevant; truly every political expe ment to improve the process of approving and issuing work permits so that their businesses can get faster access to skilled workers. The private sector was more than prepared to support and work harmoniously with the government in realizing its goals. "One of the challenges we must tackle to stimulate economic activities is the sustainable and reliable energy supply," she said. "We are satisfied with the good plans which the government and Nampower have with regard to reducing the dependence on South Africa as far as power supply is concerned. "We would however like to encourage the government to intensify our search for renewable energy solutions to our energy challenges. The private sector is prepared to fully participate in these efforts provided that a conducive environment is created to allow private investments in this sector." "We are strong believers in effective partnership between Government and private sector but such a partnership cannot be built and sustained through ad hoc consultations. We strongly propose that a structured, result-oriented dialogue between the government and priate sector be established, which allows the two stakeholders to meet at least twice a year with clear targets to be achieved through such dialogue." NCCI believes that the absence of this dialogue has created misunderstanding on both sides and is not good for a sustainable partnership, for there can be no meaningful partnership without regular formal interactions. We therefore propose a consultative meeting to be arranged in a formal dialogue platform in future so that we can jointly review the success of our plans for accelerating economic development and reducing unemployment and poverty."
