

What people say

From SWAPO website: www.swapoparty.org

◆ Posted by: Amunjela
I am going to cast my vote for the Mighty SWAPO party tomorrow in Pretoria. SWAPO ALWAYS VICTORIOUS

◆ Posted by Cde.Katusha
A political coward Mr.Fillemon Ipumbu aka Phil yaNangolo goes mad.Now he is discovering graves that are already known by the people.Phil yaNangolo and his NSHR are graves explorer and now busy disturbing the dead in their graves throughout our the country in the name of Human Rights.SWAPO shall deliver a defeat for NSHR,Real Disappointed People(RDP), Gwen Lister and Max Hamhata come 27-28 November 2009.SWAPO United,SWAPO Victorious,Now we shall deliver their defeat on 27-28 November 2009.Victory is certain comrades.Aluta Continua.

◆ Posted by Cde.Imelda(Keetmanshoop)
Mr.Hamhata of informate Newspaper is a son of the puppet.What he is trying to do is to finish his father's business.We all know him,you know comrades poisonous never get finish from the snake.However we are going to defeat them come 27-28 November 2009.My appeal goes to the Fishmen that are casting their votes on Friday,13 November 2009.SWAPO Party is the only Party that can address issue in the fishing sector.Therefore vote for Mighty SWAPO Party and Comrade.Hifikepunye Pohamba and be part of the celebration,when you come back on land.Another appeal to goes to those living abroad,cast your vote for the SWAPO Party and Comrade.Hifikepunye Pohamba for peace and stability to prevail in Namibia our country.As well as for economic construction.SWAPO United,SWAPO Victorious,Now we shall develop Namibia our motherland!

◆ Posted by Cde.Katusha(Vaalgras)
Mr.Livius Hamutenya and Mr.Nyamu Notes go

mand,because OSWAPO oya kindja.They are now making irresponsible statements.One wonder what are they going to say after the elections.We are going to defeat them ofcourse.Now Mr.Nyamu Notes is calling his friends in NSHR and Churches to investigate Outapi chaos that was caused by RDP.They took guns to Outapi to create chaos and hope that the elections will not be credible and perhaps to be postpone.We shall defeat them,they know no matter claimed to have representatives in State House.Mr.Livius Hamutenya and Nyamu Notes will never occupy the State House.Only few days left comrades,we shall dump them in the political dustbin come 27-28 November 2009.

◆ Posted by Cde. Simon J./Uirab
Hmmm Ou Jesaya Nyamu is really getting mad and I think he needs both political and medical attention before he suffered a major stroke. But I think it will be better if he postponed the visit to the doctor (if he has one) until after the election. Because come 27+28 November 2009 Namibians from all thirteen regions and 107 constituencies will renew the mandate for the Mighty SWAPO Party with another landslide VICTORY and the aftermath for Ou Jesaya Nyamu will be a major political stroke that will keep him politically paralyze for the remainder of his life.

◆ Posted by Cde Mekondjo Megameno
Shame on Nyamu,Hidipo, yaNangolo and the followers.How can Scrapyard politicians get so desperate to return to parliament through the backdoor, the Tsvangirai style. It is a failing plan from Hidipico ya?Nangolo, sHamata and the gweniList team. How do you ship people in and out of Omusati for an address, why not talk to them in Okongo, Opuwo and Omungwelum where they were shipped from. Hidipico, your dream of a so called national unity government will NOT work in Namibia, not even when you are rotten in the political dustbin of history, so tell your handlers to go to hell. gewniList, double shame on you deliberately omitting the radopa weapons, how do people go to rallies with weapons and even twisting Cde Van der Walts speech. Ndjembela of new era god bless you for the truth and exposure of Shipalu and Shanangolos desperate acts.

◆ Posted by Amunjela nyamu and Hidipo are lost sheeps and they dont even know what they are talking about anymore, the only thing left for them is for us to flush them into the toilet pots come 27-28 November 2009

◆ Posted by Swapo Tuli (Windhoek, Namibia)
I fully agree with Cde. Kauna: Nyamu is going mad and confused now, infact he is already confused and still confusing himself, mhhh! I urge him to go straight and visit his Doctor (if he has one), then he re-read The Spotlight: political satire on this website! by then, he will be healed! He realised that his Political Project(RaDoPa) is loosing supporters and joining SWAPO, now he is making funny statements, wait mr. nyamu only less than 17 days left. I am sure the next thing you will be saying is: "Comrades, I was just confused, i am also a SWAPO member". So dont make a fool out of yourself nyamu. Wonder how you will feel when we start our landslide victory celebration. VIVA SWAPO Party!

◆ Posted by Comrade Kauna
Alas! Shapopiwa konkolwe oeenda nasho komutima. I am sure a sober person would not have done what drank Nyamu did. Acknowledging having spies aka hibernators in State House, on a Mission. Pray, let him take more beers and very soon he will mention names! So would he happy if he was a president (god forbid) and has opposition spies in his office. I think he is either boosing or his representatives in State House did not deliver so he wants them punished, or is sheer drunkenness? How do you see it comrades?

◆ Posted by Cde.Imelda(Keetmanshoop)
Mr.Nyamu Notes claimed to have representatives everywhere even a State House is not news to the Mighty SWAPO Party Family.They are few individuals that are known to the SWAPO Party and only time will tell.We shall flush them out. SWAPO United, SWAPO Victorious,Now we shall defeat the Real Disappointed People(RDP) come 27-28 November 2009.Comrades victory is certain!Aluta Continua!

◆ Posted by Cde. Simon J./Uirab
The remarks by the self appointed leader of the RADOPA (RDP) that the rulings parties in SADC have been cheating elections all along cannot remain unchallenge. Therefore Mr. Hamutenya must know that if he does not how to cam-

Zoom In

By Asser Ntinda

These are interesting times. The election fever is very high. So too are the commotions. RDP supporters and their leaders are behaving like former members (Makakunyas) of Koevoet and the South West Africa Territory Force, SWATF, during the 1989 elections. Their acts of provocation are frightening. No sane person can condone their provocative behaviour. It is not that SWAPO Party members are being intolerant, but they are being provoked to the limit.

Firstly, RDP's "house to house" campaign is dangerous and must be stopped with immediate effect. What happened at Outapi should never happen again. RDP had an identified venue where they were to hold their meeting. But because there were few people, mainly the ones they bussed in from other regions, they decided to march in the town, stopping at the SWAPO Party Office in the town. That was really uncalled for.

A desperate man is very unpredictable. The last kicks of a dying horse are very vicious and lethal. RDP's leaders, especially its President Hidipo Hamutenya and Secretary General, Jesaya Nyamu, are doing all they can to render the outcome of the November elections incredible. They are so desperate that they can say and do anything that is timed to provoke SWAPO Party.

In fact, their desperate campaign strategy is designed to avoid the elections at all cost. Having realized that their chances of winning this month's elections is zero, RDP is no longer interested in the elections. Its leaders and supporters are now provoking people to find a good reason to pull out.

Recently, Hidipo claimed that SWAPO Party had been "rigging" elections for the past 20 years. His unquestioning servant, Nyamu, amplified his boss's claims by adding that RDP has "representatives" in all key government institutions and SWAPO "can no longer cheat" any opposition party in the coming elections. SWAPO Party has never rigged elections. It has no reason to do so. Its popularity is seen by everybody. Hidipo knows he is telling lies and the decision by SWAPO Party to sue him should not be abandoned at all.

Wisdom begins when you weigh the consequences of what you plan to say and do. That apparently does not feature anywhere in RDP's lexicon. Hidipo's wild claims started with Namprint, regarding the printing of ballot papers by that company. He complained bitterly that the Electoral Commission of Namibia, ECN, should withdraw its tender from Namprint or they would pull out of the elections. Hidipo cobbled together former puppets and their "baas" to make noise about Namprint.

They eventually succeeded but at their own disadvantage. Few of the opposition parties could send representatives to South Africa to observe and monitor the printing process there. RDP's representative, Libolly Haufike, spent less than two hours at Ren-Form and left. So too did NUDO. Had they not complained, they could have monitored the printing process at Namprint. That came and went.

Another blunder was the issue RDP and the Congress of Democrats, CoD, had with the Namibian Broadcasting Corporation's airtime allocation for political parties taking part in the elections. RDP and CoD, took the NBC to court, demanding equal airtime allocation. In their foolishness, they did not think about the consequences of the steps they were taking. After all, the NBC is under no legal obligation to provide airtime to political parties.

When the NBC cancelled the airtime allocation, the casualty was not SWAPO Party at all, but opposition parties themselves. In fact, it was just foolish on their part to demand equal airtime allocation because even in Parliament, the money political parties receive is given proportionally, which makes sense. Their demand for equal airtime was as absurd as demanding that all political parties should get the same amount of money. Their demand, once again, boomeranged.

At least Nyamu did one thing this week by acknowledging and telling all and sundry that RDP has got spies at State House, State Security and in the Police Force. SWAPO Party Youth League, SPYL, must be commended for its foresight. SPYL has long pointed out and named hibernators, but the militant wing was unfortunately not taken seriously. Nyamu has now vindicated SPYL. After all, he knows what he is talking about.

Lest we forget, Nyamu authored subversive notes that cost him his SWAPO Party membership. His notes, penned on a five page report in 2004, called for the resignation from SWAPO Party of people who were loyal to Hidipo "one by one." He also called for the "weakening" of the "new" Pohamba administration by hibernators, the formation of a "rival party" and so on. All these things have happened. We should not be surprised by his latest revelation at all. All what Nyamu is saying is in his notes. There is absolutely no reason to doubt his revelation.

In any case, elections are only a few weeks away. RDP knows it will dismally lose the elections. That is why it is bussing in people from other regions to boost its crowd. But such frantic efforts will not save it. It is in for a rude shock. Nothing between now and before the elections will save it. Having unsuccessfully failed to claim authorship of the National Anthem, he is now desperately trying to find a credible reason to avoid that electoral humiliating defeat. He has long thought and convinced himself that he was smarter than anybody else. Now he has realized that he is just a fool. His Jonas Savimbi's style of 'either I win or elections are not fair' will not save him. Just look at the weapons that were confiscated from RDP supporters? These are the last kicks of a dying horse. RDP's strategy now is to spoil the elections. SWAPO Party supporters should be careful not to play into RDP's hands.

Cont on page 4

VOTE SWAPO

For the Development of the SME Sector

SWAPO PARTY

X