

What people say

From SWAPO website: www.swapoparty.org

◆ Posted by Armas (Malaysia)

As you saw from the results from abroad and the sea, we HAVE already started the process of peacefully defeating the coalition of hypocrites. Finish them off that side. NOngonyo ya SWAPO! Unmentionable ones got zero votes here!

◆ Posted by Isaiah Z. Kavendjii

There is no doubt that the result that has been filtering through from abroad has indicated one irrefutable fact, and that fact is that our mighty SWAPO Party means business. I congratulate all the Comrades who have voted from beyond our borders and to give the Party that essential lead. Your vote is sending a clear message to those who were confused by the false hoods of the architects of a failing project. The message is that come 27 and 28 of November 2009, that project (radopa) will join similar projects that met their natural fate i.e. political obscurity and misery. So, Comrades let us now redouble our efforts in the remaining days to kindly advice those who have been promised milk and honey by people who has failed to provide the same in the past, to see the truth with a view to reject political opportunism for self gain, and vote for true leadership as evidenced by the tried and tested leadership of the mighty SWAPO Party. Viva SWAPO, the struggle continues, Victory is certain.

◆ Posted by Cde.Katusha

Dear Comrades,I have been voting for the SWAPO Party of Namibia since 1989.I am proud to continue voting the SWAPO Party of Namibia as the only Party that liberated this country and bring development to the people of Namibia.Thefore my appeal goes to the born frees to emulate the sea-going workers by voting the SWAPO Party of Namibia on 27-28 November 2009 .The sea-going workes gave the SWAPO Party a resounding victory that humiliated the likes of Livius Hamutenya,Gwen Lister,Max Hamata and Hengari.Victory is certain comrades!Those that mislead come back home, do not waste your votes on the losers.Vote the SWAPO Party the Party that always win elections in N a m i b i a . S W A P O United,SWAPO Victorious,Now we shall defeat them come 27-28 N o v e m b e r 2009!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

◆ Posted by Cde Ndeshipanda

Shame on RaDoPa, now they are claiming to have a concern that people who voted on the 13 Nov might vote on the 27 & 28 and that those who will vote on the 27 can travel to a different places and vote again on the 28. Why is RaDoPa raising this issue after some result were announced? Have they realise that there is no chance for them or what. To me that is an excuse,and very poor one. if they know that there is no security in place to avoid such situation, thn why dont they go to court since they are good at that. we remain United and will always be. RDP should get REAL and face the truth kutja there is no place for them in this Land of the Brave. Viva SWAPO viva.

◆ Posted by Cde Kanamutenya,WHK

Thanks to all who had voted, they have truly shown the maturity, however I think the mighty Party through its government should reshuffle the New York staff; it is disgrace, no wonder who is the head there!!!! Come 27-28 we will do it as usually to make sure we have 2/3 majority! Let us defeat them and they must be defeated in all constituencies. Plse cdes when is the star rally here in Windhoek when and where? ..Otwahala Okuuya momangungo. Omapu naaze mumwe Neengongo!!!!!!

◆ Posted by Naboth Uunona

“ Radopo zamo mondjila tse tuyendemu” Viva Ondilimani ya

Namibia!

◆ Posted by Amunjela

Come the 27/28 November 2009, we will witness the last kicks of a dying horse are very vicious and lethal, i am referring to the RDP as the dying horse

Posted by Helena Belle Kashima I was born in SWAPO,grew up in SWAPO and I will die in SWAPO.... People of Namibia I have some piece of advice to you,if you want to live a better life make sure you vote for SWAPO,for peace,freedom and stability..... VIVA SWAPO!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

◆ Posted by Tshaanika tshomumati

The leadership of Radopa constantly reveals its hypocritical tendencies. At the Radopa rally at Keetmanshoop recently, Radopa deputy leader Bezuidenhout claimed that no development has taken place in Namibia and that Namibia was worse off compared to the pre-colonial times. Eish! Are they blind? Can they really not see the roads which we have built, the clinics, hospitals, schools, railway lines and many other infrastructure which were not there? Do they think that Namibians are not able to see the development which has taken place? The water and electricity in their villages? The many young Namibians who were sent to school, universities and colleges by the SWAPO Party Government? We will not be fooled by their lies. We will vote correctly come the 27th and 28th November 2009. Voting correctly means voting for the SWAPO Party in the National Assembly elections and for Comrade President Hifikepunye Pohamba in the presidential elections. Swapo, united! Swapo victorious! Now, hardwork!

◆ Posted by Kakola ke kullye

New York!! Who is the Head there at UN?? No wonder!!

◆ Posted by malawi

Something has to be done in New York there are a lot of traitors there

◆ Posted by Amunjela

Tanzania was our homeland during the struggle, kamuna omapuli kaa - i expected that result. i agree with Negumbo- please Moderator put new stuff on the website

◆ Posted by Cde.Katusha(Vaalgras)

The defeat of Livius Hamutenya and his political project is drawing near.One wonder what are they going to say after their humiliation defeat.We shall defeat them,they even know for sure.The born frees will vote for SWAPO Party of Namibia and Comrade Pohamba on 27-28 November 2009.The cohorts of the likes,of Gwen Lister,Phil yaNangolo,Max Hamata and Hengari, your defeat is on the way.Your defeat shall be delivered on 27-28 November 2009.SWAPO United,SWAPO

Cont on page 4

Zoom In

By Asser Ntinda

The Outapi mayhem might have come and gone but its implications and effects will be with us long after the elections are over. It is quite disgusting that The Namibian and the National Society for Human Rights, NSHR, which have been so quick to point out “acts of violence committed” by SWAPO Party supporters, have chosen to ignore the reality as it unfolded at Outapi.

When members of the Rally for Democracy and Progress, RDP, go on the rampage, these institutions maintain an unpleasing stone silence. But the people themselves – the victims of the concealed connivance between unruly and provocative RDP supporters and these institutions – will speak out, as they have already started doing.

There is a serious need for a thorough investigation about what happened at Outapi two weeks ago, as the scars of those who were beaten up by both the Police and RDP supporters will remain with them for the rest of their lives. Allegations emerging from Outapi are serious, and should they be true, the Police Force at Outapi needs to investigate itself thoroughly.

Only a thorough investigation will complete that jigsaw and clear the conscience of those who became victims of circumstances at the hands of the Police and RDP supporters. The outcome of the investigation would also clear or confirm allegations against NAMPOL. Needless to say, the Police have not been faultless in handling the situation. They have been one-sided and anger is fast building up there. It has taken the Namibian Police many years to build up a good reputation that it enjoys today.

All now depends on how they deal with these sensitive cases. The public — whose trust and confidence the police must cultivate to ensure successful policing – is watching and is not impressed. A gulf is now slowly but surely developing between the Police and the public. And that is not good at all. Brutal force does not solve any problem. Understanding does. Force must be used as a last resort. And when it is used, everybody should come to the conclusion that there was no alternative but to use force.

The picture emerging out of Outapi is ugly. You have people who were beaten up and arrested by the Police, but there were no charges laid against them because there were no grounds on which those charges could be laid. Some of those people were released on warnings. Released on warnings after being beaten? Our Constitution does not allow this, not even corporal punishment. It is worse when law enforcement officers carry out their duties without regard to the Constitution, our Supreme Law.

We have deliberately decided to publish some of those pictures for the public to know. These pictures are not in our best interest. When violence erupts, the Police should never be one-sided, as it is alleged to have been the case at Outapi. Beata Aiping and Hilia Uushona had to bear with swollen breasts and thighs respectively, having been beaten up by RDP supporters.

Naftali Mathias was beaten up and arrested by the Police as he tried to pick up his keys which had fallen down. The Police thought he was picking a stone to throw at them. The case is pending. Jonas Hamutenya was arrested by the Police as he tried to remove his car from a scene where violence was about to erupt. The Police accused him of having driven “too fast” from the scene. They gave him a spot fine of N$150, 00. Despite all these provocations, no RDP supporters have been arrested. The people are asking why?

Some of those allegations are serious and have the ingredients to irreparably damage the image of the Police – hence the need for a thorough investigation. This year saw police officers in full uniforms removing a SWAPO Party flag from a tree and throwing it down in full public view. RDP supporters ululated and chanted as this happened. Similar cases are now emerging from Outapi. In the face of these allegations, the Police Force needs to take these allegations seriously by investigating, not ignoring, them.

True, things have never been the same since the 2004 SWAPO Party Extra-Ordinary Congress. It was from there that former SWAPO Party leader, Jesaya Nyamu, jotted down some subversive notes, which called for the destruction of the “new Pohamba administration from within.” Creating a bridge of mistrust between the public and the Police is one option.

And sure enough, Nyamu himself came full circle to his notes and publicly announced that RDP has “people” in key state institutions. One of the institutions he mentioned was NAMPOL. Nyamu was not lying when he jotted down those notes. We should therefore not doubt his honesty when he says so in public. The public is watching.

One of the reasons why people are flocking to SWAPO Party rallies and meetings these days is that they are bitter and angry not only about those who have defected and followed Nyamu. They are bitter and angry about those who have remained behind to implement Nyamu’s notes from within. SWAPO Party Youth League, SPYL, calls them hibernators. They are destroying the government from within. We should not ignore this stark reality.

The biggest challenge facing the SWAPO Party government is not how to deal with those who have defected. Those ones are known. They have said so publicly. The real challenge is how to deal with rebels within. The thousands of people we see at SWAPO Party rallies and meetings come to express their anger against hibernators. The sooner the leadership acts the better. The largest bulk of our nation is behind SWAPO Party and utterly against those who have defected and the rebels within. We cannot afford to ignore such massive crowds. For, they don’t come to sing hallelujah for hibernators. They come to ask for decisive action. Nothing more, nothing less.

VOTE SWAPO

For the Development of the SME Sector

SWAPO PARTY

