Comrade Tala you are right, Komeshooooo! Even RaDoPa (“Reshuffled association Demagogic of Paranoid acid”) is threatening the ECN yet they wants to say they are democrats, what a mockery? The judiciary is independent and no one can interfere with its affairs, imagine if they are showing their color now what happen if they could have power then? Shame! Although they gone never rule this country anyway, let them swallow the blades waaaalye walooooo tuuu, ehulilo lavo otalikakala lafa ando peni ee? Tse atweende ongenda twaukilila tatu kahogololola O SWAPO yetu manga tuli momwenyo!

Our mothers were deliberately denied education before 1990. Our fathers were deliberately enslaved through farm/mine labour. Our human rights and dignity were deliberately and freely suppressed and oppressed. Thanks to kakukutu Nujoma and his leadership that now we have Unam, Polytech and learning opportunities. Thanks to tate Pohamba now we can talk of Eenhaha, Helao Nafidi, Omuthiya, Opuwo as towns. Thanks now we can intermarry as Namibians! Above all, thanks to the Swapo leadership for peace and development. All these happened in 1990 (1990-1884) after 106 years of colonialism.Swapo may not be perfect but it is the best established party there is in Namibia. We may be struggling with many challenges but Swapo has gone though Oshatotwa, Cassinga, Oshikuku massacres and many battles. We never defected, we never wavered, we never gave up because we knew that Aluta continua and e victoria e certa! Kakururume kOmobumbi calls all of us to Vote for Swapo! Kabajani, Pandeni, Witbooi, Tjitendero, Garoeb, Kandanga, Nguvauva, Mandume, lipumbu, Lubowski, Libertine Amadhila, Tjiriange and Nujoma call us to take over where they left off! Vote Swapo for peace, unity and development!

Dear Comrades,RDP announced that,they are considering wether or not to contest the upcoming Regional and Local Authority Elections scheduled for 26-27 November 2010.What a shame?We all know that RDP project is a failure.They cann,t swallow the humiliation and defeat again.They know that OSWAPO oya kindja!To contest or not we shall humiliate and defeat them together with their pupets of Phil yaNangolo,Henk Mudge and Gwen Lister.Donors fund is drying up in RDP account.Their rallies in Keetmanshoop and Gobabis has failed.People realise that they were mislead by this opportunistic politicians, therefore they cann,t attract people at their rallies any more.What a shame for Hidipco Hamutenya to address a small crowd at UN Plaza over the weekend.This is a sign that RDP is finished once and for all.Victory is certain Comrades!SWAPO U n i t e d , S W A P O Victorious,Now Hard Work!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

Good morning all commrades!! I am very ashamed by RADOPA representative in National assembly and i really do not know why they are there, what they are doing there, who they want to fool with their lies, unprepared speech made by puppets like nyamu, naholo, limbo, luck and their confused leader hidipo, since they went there they never brought up something which even an abnormal person can listen to. I think they need a mental and physical treatment.

The recent opened Sophia Shaningwa Branch by vice President of SWAPO PARTY Comrade Hage Geingob in Ohama Yashuunda, Outapi Constituency, Omusati Region is a testimony of hard work and should be recommended, it serve as an example to all other branches of the Party to follow suit. Thanks to all comrades who in one way or other contributed to the build of the office, our special thanks goes to comrades Paulus Kapia, TONA YANAMIBIA “cde Amadhila” to mention but few and to all comrades we salute you for job well done! Cde Shikutu Shakana Ombandi babised Shamona Ombandi keep on hard work. SWAPO UNITED, SWAPO VICTORIOUS, NOW HARD WORK!!!

Zoom In

By Asser Ntinda

Last weekend, we were treated to some mendacious, if not mediocre, statements by Rally for Democracy and Progress, RDP, President Hidipo Hamutenya, telling a small group of his faithful that RDP would consider boycotting the upcoming elections if the High Court did not issue its judgment on the outcome of the National Assembly and Presidential elections court challenge by RDP and eight other political parties.

Whether this was a real threat or just a mere bluff by a frustrated politician whose chances of winning any elections are very slim, only Hidipo himself can tell. But whether the threat is real or just a mere bluff, he has really taken more chunks than he can chew.

By now, Hidipo has realized that RDP stands no chance in the coming regional and local authority elections, hence such threats. With so many mass defections from RDP throughout the country, these should be worrying, not defining, moments for HH. His public utterances are informed and guided by that piercing reality. And it hurts and blurs his sights.

Courts have strict procedures to follow. Every piece of evidence must be thoroughly examined without undue pressure. It is worse when such mounting pressure comes from a politician. It amounts to interference in the independency of our judiciary, which has been meticulous in its work over the past years, thus earning itself an unfettered status of being independent and impartial in what it says and does.

That reputation has not been easy to earn. It must, therefore, be vigorously protected by every person who is seriously concerned about the future of this country.

Why has Hidipo, all of a sudden, started punching on the Judiciary, Rambo style? Hidipo said last weekend that unless the High Court delivered its judgment before November 27, RDP would boycott the upcoming regional and local authority elections. What has that boycott got to do with the High Court judgment?

The High Court rightly said that the issues raised in the election application were many and complex with far-reaching implications. The Court therefore has every intention of giving each issue raised proper and careful consideration, and hand it down when it is ready, not at a time dictated to the Court by Hidipo.

Whether RDP boycotts the elections or not, for us, that is immaterial. It is the future of his party that is at stake anyway. He alone knows how to nurse its septic wounds. Whichever decision he takes will, in one way or another, only affect his party. He is running it down at a supersonic speed. And his followers are watching in disbelief, wondering whether what they see happening is real or is just a dream from which they would wake up soon.

The scandalous boycott of the National Assembly only succeeded to send RDP supporters confused. The short-lived marriage with the Republican Party, RP, simply worsened the situation. Recently, we saw annoyed members of the public striking off their names from RDP’s lists, complaining that they were not consulted when their names were put on such lists as RDP candidates for the November regional and local authority elections.

This was a clear indication that RDP never held elections to elect their candidates. People were just handpicked, without even their consent, and had their names submitted to the Electoral Commission of Namibia, ECN, to meet the requirements. But the most interesting question is, in doing so, who did RDP think it was cheating?

The anger with which people struck off their names from such lists only embarrassed and humiliated RDP itself in public, weeks before people go to vote. This was, indeed, a classic exercise in self-amputation par-excellence.

Even the few people whom Hidipo has succeeded to convert are now questioning his leadership qualities and abilities. And, like Josef Rooi in Keetmanshoop, they are voting with their feet, going to look for sustainable political greener pastures elsewhere, rather than confining themselves to a tiny barren plot that RDP occupies on Namibia’s political landscape.

Now he has pulled out another surprise – election boycott – which he now wants to keep hanging on the High Court’s head like the proverbial Sword of Damocles, while pressurizing High Court judges to rush into judgments just to please him. This is a direct attack on the independence of our judiciary, which must be condemned with the contempt it deserves.

Do not boycott these elections as you did during the Tobias Hayinyeko Constituency by-election two years ago. People need you in the boxing ring to watch the show. Have balls and walk the race like all other political contenders. After all, you chose to run, willingly at that. You can’t proclaim your political ability to run and suddenly hide behind such gaffes. You made that choice, you must live with its consequences.
